SPORTING EVENTS FROM ALL POINTS

The great game between the A. A. A. and P. A. C. teams on Saturday continues to command the entire attention of the football enthusiasts, and the indications are that with fair weather there will be such a turnout as has never before been seen in this city on such an occasion. Only one or two of the boxes are left unsold and the space for tallyhos and carriages is about all gone. In response to a general demand it was decided to reserve 500 seats in the grand stand, and these were placed quietly on sale at Pratt's yesterday at noon. Before night it began to look as if 500 reserved seats will not be enough for those who want to engage their seats beforehand.

It is rumored that the P. A. C. boys incend to take an entire section of the reserved seats for their lady friends, who will display the colors of the team they tope will win. And the blue and white colors may also be bunched together. The P. A. C.'s have engaged the biggest band wagon in town and will drive from their beadquarters, the Monongahela House, and take a position near the center of the field. It is estimated that there will be enough lung power on this four-in-hand to make the echoes ring, if occasion requires. The A. A. a.'s tallyho will also be on hand, near the center of the field, and there are voices in the aggregation of musical talent to be on board that will tear three-cornered roles in the atmosphere, if the blue and Nobody outside of the two captains and managers knows just how the teams will line up. There are all sorts of rumors concerning the men who are to play. Hints that John L. Sultivan has consented to act as the P. A. C.'s center rush and that Heffelfinger, Homans, King and Fiscos have applied for positions in the A. A. A.'s are flying around, and in fact so mysterious an air has been thrown around the affair that it is doubtful whether the teams will be recognizable. Manager Kountz says there won't be much change in the A. A. A.'s' line up, but rumor has it that one or two of the players are laid up and won't be able to play. Valentine is alleged to have a carbuncle on his neck which he doesn't want to have tackled, and Martin, of the P. A. C.'s, according to all accounts, has to wear plasters to keep his pieces together. Some of the other players are taking iron to strengthen themselves for the fray, and the rest are practicing against stone walls in order to learn how to break through the opposing rush line. It will be a great game.

The W. J.'s Scheduled for Wheeling. WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 .- [Special.] -- Manager Barnhart has made arrangements with the manager of the Lehigh football team to have a game with Washington and Jefferson on the Friday following Thanksgiving at Wheeling, W. Va. The game is to be played on the lair grounds. Hamilton, of Prince-ton, has been here for a few days giving Captain Cark some valuable pointers on the game. He is paying special attention to full weak in kicking. Hamilton is a good coach, and his services this week and last have been very valuable to Captain Clark.

Griffen and Dixon May Meet. NEW YORK, Nov. 2.-The Coney Island

spaired of arranging a meeting between George Dixon and Johnny Griffen. A purse of $7,300 has been offered, and a suggestion that each man make concessions in the way that each man make concessions in the way of weight. Dixon has heretolore stood out for 118 pounds. Griffen has hard work to get below 122, but says he can be fit at 120. Dixon, it would appear, ought to stand all O. K. at 120. He is thick enough through the chest and has noble legs to carry 120 pounds. And then there's the $7,500. That's worth a little extra thought and trouble and risk. It would be one of the greatest contests of the times, a meeting between Dixon and Griffen.

A NEW BILLIARD GAME.

Points Count Only When the Cue Ball Hits

the Other Three Balls. NEW YORK, Nov. 9 .- A group of billiard lovers gathered in Maurice Duly's rooms and watched in utter astonishment the queer maneuvring of Prof. Kaarlus, and a wellknown New York lawyer, who ranks as an amateur billiardist of the first class. They were playing for a triendly wager of a bottle of champagne. There were four balls on the table and the mon made carrom after carrom, but to the amazement of the onlookers they did not score these on the string. There was a surprise at the very outset when the lawyer said that he would wager the Professor a bottle of wine that he would make three points before the Professor did. They knocked the balls around for a quarter of an hour, and at length the onlookers saw that only those shots were scored where the cueball carromed on all three of the object balls. The amateur beat the goodnatured Professor by safety factics, and the Professor haughed heartily.

"What in the thunder are you fellows trying to do?" said one of the Professor's friends, while the game was in progress. "I never saw such crazy antics."

"Crazy," retorted the hercules of billiards. "Not n bit of it. This is the latest thing in four-ball game for those who have a knowledge of the principle of billiards. It puts lots of excitement and interest in the game."

Then the Professor chalked his cue and were playing for a triendly wager of a bot-

Then the Professor chalked his one and executed half a dozen pretty shots at the new kind of game which exemplified six different kinds of one strokes. No. I shows the effect of English twist. The one ball strikes the first object hall, twists to the lower rail and side rail, journeys to the top iail, and carroms neatly on the two other object halls near the rail.

lower rail and side rail, journeys to the top lail, and carrons neatly on the two other object bails near the rail.

No. 2 was a follow shot, in which the one ball tollows to the bottom rail after striking the first object ball and glides to the right side rail, carroming as before, on the remaining bails. The third illustrated the beauty of the "draw" carrom. The one ball is driven upon two object balls lying near the right rail, with "draw English." It shoots backward to the rail, darts to the upper rail, thence to the left side rail, and carroms on the last object ball. This is a dashing shot, which always astonishes the onlooker and wins loud applause.

A complicated kiss shot was next made, by which the cue ball, after striking the first object ball, swept around the table, taking three cushions, kissed the second object ball in the lower right-hand corner, and then glided to the third object ball. This is a exceedingly brilliant stroke.

The efficacy of the bank stroke was proven in the fifth carrom. The cue ball was banked against the second one hard enongs to drive it into the corner in a two-cushion flight to meet the cue ball. This is an exceedingly brilliant stroke.

THE TYPICAL SOCIETY GIRL

It Requires a Lot of Red Tape Before She Can Make a Fitting Debut. One is often ignorant of the existence of young girls in the houses of one's friends until by chance they are revealed at a matinee of the opera, sitting demurely in the family box, or at their summer homes, on horseback, or playing at tennis on the lawn, writes Mrs. Burton Harrison in the Ladies' Home Journal.

The dancing class, controlled by a beyr of matrons who carefully select the names sent out upon invitations to belong to it, is her training ground for polite society. At these classes, meeting in the afternoon or evening once a week, the mothers sit around the halls while the boys and girls go through the exact forms to be observed in the ballroom of the future. When the young person is ready to be introduced into society, the mother, as often as not, issues cards for a general afternoon reception of her friends. Gowned in simplest home dress, high at the throat and of pure white, the debuntante stands be youd her mother at the chief entrance of the drawing-room. Behind her piled upor tables or the piano, is seen a veritable her tacomb of flowers sent in by friends to cel ebrate the hour. Each guest, after speak-ing to the mother or chaperone, is then nentioned by name to the debuntante, who bows or curtsies as she has been taught to

Here she is queen of the feast, and amid flowers and lights and music and kind words, no wonder that the vista of society seems to be like fairy land. From that day on she is rarely seen in public without her parents, or one of them, or a fitting substi-

The largest hand sawing machine in the world has recently been completed in England and sent to Tasmania. The machine can saw through a maximum depth of 75 inches, and the carriage will accommodate logs 50 feet long and weighing about 50 tons. It is asserted that this saw cuts even faster than a circular saw, while wasting 75 per cent less wood.

Rotting tree stumps may easily be removed in this way: With a 11/2-inch, auger bore a hole in the center of the stump about 18 inches deep and put in 20 ounces of saltpetre, fill the hole with water and plug it tight. In the spring take out the plug, pour into the hole a half-pint of crude pe-troleum and set it on fire. MONEY WON AND LOST.

Mike Dwyer the Heaviest Winner on the Presidental Election.

HE IS AT LEAST $80,000 AHEAD.

Some Others Who l'appened to Pick Out the Right Ticket.

GAINERS AND LOSERS BY THE SLUMP

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] NEW YORK, Nov. 9.-Just how much money has changed hands on the election will probably never be known, as some of the big bets were made recently, but it is certain that in this city alone the amount wagered exceeded $500,000. There were so many big bettors that it would be difficult to say who staked the most, but the persistent plunging of Mike Dwyer makes it very probable that he put out the

the largest amount of any individual.

Mr. Dwyer made some bets personally, but the most of the money he staked was placed for him by two representatives. One hunted up the Republicans in the downtown financial center, and Joe Vendig haunted the Hoffman House, Both men had big rolls of thousand-dollar bills, and as soon as a Harrison man squeaked he was beset. The downtown man bet mainly on the State at the prevailing odds, while Vendig bet on everything. The variety of bets made by this man would have confused a less self-possessed man.

A Small Man With a Big Nerve. Vendig is a small, modest young man, whom one would never suspect of great nerve. It required a cool head to keep calm in the jostling mob that filled the Hoffman House during the betting nights. Vendig kept his wad in his inside waistcoat, and never produced it until the stake-holder was on hand and the preliminaries had all been arranged.

Of course nobody knows just how much
Dwver wor, but it is placed at $80,000.
He is reported to have won every bet he

Jim and John Mahoney were also big and persistent bettors, and were always on deck when Harrison money appeared at the Hoffman. Their united winnings should reach at least $80,000.

Edward Murphy, Jr., of the State Committee, is reported to have won $5,000, most of it on bets on the State. John Carroll, the Tammany man, is said to be about $20,000 richer, and J. J. O'Donohue is $30,000 aboad. $30,000 ahead.

The list of winners reported to-night is extremely long, and the fact that the losing list must be fully as big makes it apparent that a good many citizens have other reasons than partisan predilections for mourning the result.

Billy Edwards Has $1,000 Left, Billy Edwards has $1,000 on deposit in a trust company after paying the State bets to-day. He will hold this until Friday or Saturday. A jocose Republican pasted on Tuesday night on a bulletin board uptown: "Harrinight on a bulletin board uptown: "Harrison carries New York State by 7,500 majority." The paper remained on the board about ten minutes before the hoax was discovered, when it was torn down. In the interval it had been read by a large number of people, who quickly spread the news. When the joker went to the Gilsey House, not long after, he found men betting that Harrison had carried New York, on the strength of the bogus bulletin, for which he was responsible. He wanted to break in upon the betting group and confess that the bulletin was a fake, but was restrained by diffidence, coupled with fear of broken bones. Conscience-stricker, but unable to make up his mind stricken, but unable to make up his mind to intervene, he saw money staked as a result of his joke. When he reached the Hoffman House he found the news that Harrison had carried the State had gotten Harrison had carried the State had gotten there before him, and that money was already changing hands on the strength of it. Even in that stronghold of Democracy some time lapsed before the canard was exposed.

FIGHT AMONG THREE LIONS.

A Fierce Fight Which Took Place Over Wounded Buffalo.

It is a common practice among lions to hunt in company. A friend of mine in South Africa had a peculiar example of this. His friend V -- had wounded a bull buffalo, which had retreated within the forest. The two hunters carefully followed the blood-track, but a tera short advance were started by a successsion of loud roars, which betokened lions close at hand.

There could be little doubt that the wounded buffalo had been attacked. Therefore, with proper precaution, they approached the spot until an exciting scene presented itself suddenly on the other side of a large fallen tree, which happily coucealed the approach of the two hunters. Three lions were engaged in a life-and-death combat with the gallant old bull, who made a desperate defense, first knocking over one of his enemies, then goring another to the ground, and exhibiting a strength which appeared sufficient to defeat the combination

Suddenly the buffalo fell dead. This was the result of the original wound, as the rifle bullet had passed through the lungs. The lions were not aware of this, and began to quarrel among themselves about their imag-ined victory. One huge beast reared to half its height and placed its fore-paws upon the body of the prostrate buffalo, while at the head and the hindquarters an angry lion clutched the dead body in its spreading paws, and growled at the pos-sessor of the center. This formed a grand picture within only a few yards' distance, but two rifle-shots stretched two lions roll-ing upon the ground, and the third bounded into the thick covert and disappeared.

TRAITS OF THE KAISER.

Pe Is Very Simple in His Habits and Popular With the People.

Harper's Young People. 1 If the Emperor of Germany should retire from the ruling business to-morrow he would have clothes enough to last him his lifetime. It is said that he has a thousand suits, besides 12 dozen suits of underclothing and 50 dozen socks and handker chiefs. Some of his suits are uniforms which would not be available if he became a private citizen, but there is no doubt that he could keep his stock of underwear replenis hed from the sale of these extra uniforms, and retain a little pocket-money besides.

The Emperor is simple in his tastes, rises early, takes his dinner in the middle of the day, and puts aside the cares of State as early in the afternoon as possible, in order to ride, drive, row, or swim with his sons, of whom he is very proud. He delights in going about Berlin at night dressed like an ordinary citizen, and when recognized, rarely assumes the dignity of his rank. In these rambles after nightfall it is said he often hears comments about himself.

The Emperor is faithful in his attention to religious duties, and when he went to England on his recent visit the Salvation Army welcomed him by displaying in large letters above their headquarters, "God Bless the Praying Emperor." Mr. Harold Fred-eric says that the Emperor smokes cheap cigars and drinks beer. Neither of these hab-its is likely to make him unpopular with

A FORTUNE SELLING PAPERS.

How Two Little News Venders Have Made a Handsome Pile of Mouey. Louis Jacobs, the Des Moines newsboy who has made a small fortune selling newspapers, arrived in Chicago yesterday, says the Chicago

News Record. He has been in the business 18 years, commencing when he was 5 years old. He comes to Chicago to see if there is a boy on the streets who can give him pointers on selling out in quicker order than by the Jacobs system. Lou will take a look at the World's Fair buildings and then go to New York, Washing-ton and Baltimore before returning to mis route in Des Moines. Together with his brother

"Mose" he has accumulated from $15,000 to $20,000 selling papers. He has not handled big routes where he could distribute thousands of papers to other newsboys in a few moments, but has made his money one cent at a time, selling the news to readers. Each year the money was vested in real estate and other securitie which now yield him a handsome return. While on his vacation Louis Jacobs does not look like the newsboy usually seen on the street. He looks much more like prosperous young business man, but When he gets home he puts his good clothes away, dons his hustlers, and with a bundle of papers strapped under his arm, rakes in the nickels and pennies in good style.

In spite of their wealth, the Jacobs boys have not decided to give up their news-paper business, so they can be seen every day peddling their papers.

HOW ANCIENTS REGARDED RINGS. Peculiar Ideas Entertained by People All Over the World.

Godev's Magazine.] Once there was a peculiar significance sttached to rings. They were regarded as a token of authority. The Emperor's signet-ring placed in the hands of an official invested him, for the time, with his mas ter's power.

Rings are first mentioned in the Bible in Genesis, chapter XLL and 42nd verse: And Pharoah took his ring from his hand and put it on Joseph's band, and made him ruler over all Egypt.

When the Israelites conquered the Mid ianites, they took all their rings and brace lets and offered them to the Lord. Aha sucrus gave the ring from his hand to the Hebrews' worst enemy, thus giving him unlimited control to do with them and their property whatever he pleased. The father received his prodigal son joy-tully and sealed his forgiveness by putting ring on his hand. The Egyptians regarded their rings both as business vouchers and as ornaments, the signet-rings being always used for sealing documents; and, however used, their rings were always buried with them, and in later years are often found in their tombs.

The signet-ring was usually of bronze or silver, but among the rich gold rings were used for orname ts. Ivory or blue porcelain was worn by the poor. Plain gold rings, engraved with some motto or the head of their deities, were much prized and three or four were often worn on the fingers and also on the thumbs. Among the Hebrews no one was in full dress without a signet-ring, and ladles had their rings set profusely with costly gems, rubies, emeralds and chrysolites being the most valuable.

Description of the Sacred Insects and Their Many Symbols,

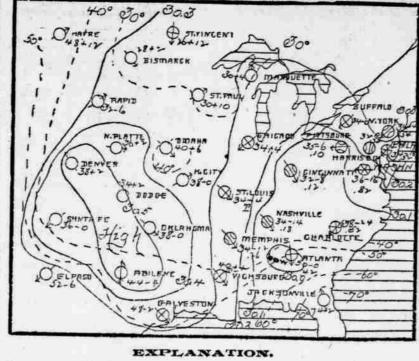

Scarabæus, "the god beetle of the lower Nile," has been worshiped, petted and feared by several benighted sects of Egypt since the time "when the mind and his tory of man runneth not the contrary. Like the other sacred creatures of idolatrous countries, several mythical fancies are woven around the entomological

The number of its toes, 30, were supposed to symbolize the average number of days in a month. On each new moon day it depos ited a ball containing 360 eggs, which the Egyptian priests assured their followers re-ferred to the number of days in the year, the brilliant golden color of the ball itself personifying the sun. In ancient times this curious bettle was declared to be of but one sex, the male, but modern inves-tigation has exploded that one moth at

In connection with the Egyptian nation. the Gonstics, as well as some of the early Christian fathers, speak of Christ as the scarabæus and symbolize him as a man with a beetle's head. The Egyptians alwaysem-balmed this sacred insect.

VICTORIA'S AWKWARD GIFT.

Negro Potentate Sends Her an Ostrich From Western Africa.

Chicago Tribune, Queen Victoria is occasionally made to suffer for the fate that made her soverign of Great Britain. Like the President of the United States, world-renowned Generals, and other dignitaries, the gifts which people choose to shower upon her Royal Highness cannot always be to her complete liking. For instance, a negro potentate has seen fit to send to England from the wilds of Western Africa an ostrich which he doubtless fondly hoped would become the Queen's constant com-panion. The bird is rather an awkward but at the same time an extremely valuable pet. It is remarkable chiefly for its huge size and dark color. How the bird comes from a region of Africa not generally recognized as the home of the ostrich does dot appear-nor why it comes to be of such unusual size and color. The Queen's ostrich is computed at many times the value of an ordinary ostrich.

HEAVY SNOW STORMS.

Bad in Central Pennsylvania, but Worse in the South.

TALKING SEALS.

Of course, such a state of affairs will not last into the winter.

We bought this extra lot of fine "seals" for cash in July. That enables us to continue this unusual sale for a few days only. It is not philanthrophy on our part. We want to make an early customer of you. That is business for us and saves money for you. Come and hear these talking seals.

"EDUCATED SEALS" are said to do "everything but talk." Our "seals" talk; they speak for themselves in the most emphatic manner. You can hear them any day while our advance sale of seal garments is in progress. Their talk is quiet, yet convincing; not high-sounding, but very sound. The gist of it is this: Whole-sale prices for the finest grades of seal garments, full length and
